EARNING YOUR BUSINESS.

At Bard Manufacturing we don't believe in coasting. Each and every day we work to earn the business and respect of even our most loyal customers. This is what keeps our customers coming back time and time again.

IT STARTS WITH SERVICE

Bard's unyielding focus on quality began with our founder Dale Bard. One hundred years later that tradition continues at every level of the company. Our goal is to provide the type of service that earns business and builds loyalty, something we gladly work tirelessly to achieve. Our technical expertise, a flexible manufacturing process, personalized attention and accessible support make all the difference.

One feature that really sets Bard apart is our international network of distributors. It's why you can find Bard products and parts around the globe. Thanks to our unique distribution model, we provide our customers with unsurpassed service and support.

The technology of today moves so fast that if you don't keep up, you quickly get left behind. So, Bard helps our customers keep pace with the changing needs of a global marketplace with innovative products and designs. In the equipment shelter/telecommunications market, Bard's unique programmable logic control (PLC) systems can be customized to give you remote access and the greatest control. You'll find the Bard name in the residential market too, on oil furnaces and geothermal heat pumps. We also offer a full line of supporting products including advanced controllers, sensors and thermostats.
